The flashing module is an electronic device that works with the ignition interlock to assist hearing-impaired persons as part of their participation in the SAAQ interlock program.

The ignition interlock control module emits a tone to indicate to the user that an instruction or information is displayed on the screen. The flashing red light assists a hearing-impaired person who may have difficulty hearing the various tones, drawing attention to the information being displayed on the screen.

I know that I must remain attentive while driving the vehicle because driving safely and responsibly remains my priority.

I, _____ acknowledge having been advised that it is not prudent to attempt to take a test while driving if I must take my eyes off the road to do so.

Since the service provider agrees to install an ignition interlock device in my vehicle and considering all the above, I accept and agree to pull over and stop on the shoulder of the road or other safe place for testing. I know that a three (3) minute delay is granted to allow me to safely stop the vehicle and complete my test.
